

Trachtenberg School of Public Policy and Public Administration

Fall 2022

PPPA 8190: Philosophical Foundations of Policy and Administrative Research

CRN: 71943

Bell 105, Monday, 5:10PM-7PM

Professor: Sanjay K. Pandey, PhD
Shapiro Professor of Public Policy and Public Administration

Email: skpandey@gwu.edu

Office location: 601R, MPA Building, 805 21st Street NW

Office phone: 202-994-1084

Office hours: Monday 4-5PM and by appointment

About the Professor:

Professor Pandey has a number of research interests and is widely published in leading public policy and administration journals. At George Washington University, Professor Pandey, in collaboration with colleagues from GWU and other universities, has convened conferences bringing together leading scholars from US and abroad on the intersection of public management and nonprofit management, developing insights from behavioral public administration to address bureaucratic red tape and administrative burden, and race and gender in public policy and administration. Professor Pandey is co-founder and convener of the Mixed Methods Research Interest Group at the George Washington University. For more on the professor, please see his Trachtenberg School website (<http://tspppa.gwu.edu/sanjay-k-pandey>) or his profiles on Google Scholar (<https://scholar.google.com/citations?user=KjmhYp4AAAAJ&hl=en&oi=ao>) and ResearchGate (https://www.researchgate.net/profile/Sanjay_Pandey15).

Course Description (from bulletin):

PPPA 8190. Philosophical Foundations of Policy and Administrative Research. 3 Credits. Philosophy of science as applied to research in public policy and public administration. Topics include the nature and current problems of epistemology, development and role of theories, and relationships among theory, methodology, and empirical data.

Focus of Course and Learning Objectives

Some philosophers contend that whether you know it or not, you are a philosopher! You are a philosopher in the sense that you subscribe to key assumptions about the nature of reality, appropriate ways of understanding, and developing knowledge about social reality. Where the “rubber hits the road” is the level of self-awareness you may have about your philosophical leanings. Most mature social sciences informing research on public policy and public administration (e.g., economics, political science, psychology, sociology, anthropology etc.) proceed with social inquiry about individuals and collectivities without significant reference to philosophical underpinnings. Philosophers argue that even as areas of inquiry mature and move into their own, they must relegate thorny concerns about reality and knowledge to philosophy. Thus, this course will examine philosophical foundations as well as important debates that endure. The learning objectives for this course are:

1. To stimulate and raise your awareness of the relation between philosophical concerns and social science research
2. To surface implicit assumptions that underlie different scholarly traditions
3. To develop your ability to engage in critical and reflective appreciation of public policy and administration scholarship and to provide opportunities for assessing what this awareness means for race, gender, and social justice.

Readings:

Two required books for the course are listed below. To accomplish the learning objectives, you are expected to go beyond the required readings. Although suggestions on additional readings and resources may be provided, you are expected to display initiative and energy in compiling and selecting relevant readings to complete course requirements.

Kuhn, Thomas, The Structure of Scientific Revolutions. University of Chicago Press.

Rosenberg, Alexander. 2015. Philosophy of Social Science, Fifth Edition. Westview Press

Course Requirements and Grading:

GRADING:

Grades will be based on completing following activities (specific details on each requirement provided below):

- Readings and Participation – 40%
- Book Review – 20%
- Course Project/Final Paper – 40%

Grades and Expectations:

A (Excellent): Exceptional work for a graduate student. Shows a strong command of the material.

A-(Very Good): Very strong work for a graduate student. Shows signs of a strong understanding of appropriate analytical approaches and meets professional standards.

B+ (Good): Sound work for a graduate student. This grade indicates the student has fully accomplished the basic course objectives.

B (Adequate): Competent work for a graduate student with some evident weaknesses. Demonstrates competency in the key course objectives but the understanding or application of some important issues is less than complete.

B- (Inadequate): Weak work for a graduate student. Understanding of key issues is incomplete. A cumulative GPA of B- will lead to academic probation.

Grades of below B- indicate extremely weak performance and insufficient grasp of the material.

Specific detail on course requirements:

1) Readings and Participation (40% of the grade)

Most sessions will have the following structure:

1. Opening remarks setting the context for the week's readings
2. 1 (or more) students leading discussion on key reading(s)
3. Deliberation on a philosophical concern to be considered in juxtaposition with the session's theme (I intentionally frame this as a deliberation, rather than debate, so that you are able to consider different perspectives and work to develop and advance common/shared understanding).

If you use text from a reading, be sure to put this text within quotation marks and note the page number(s).

-As a discussion leader you will prepare a report on the assigned reading, post your report on the discussion board for the respective week, and present it in class. Please be sure to review and follow guidelines provided in the syllabus addendum titled, "PhD Seminar Presentation & Participation Guidelines".

- You will prepare a 2-4 page written report for one deliberation prompt, present it in class, and post it to Blackboard discussion board for the respective week (Be sure to cite sources consulted). Deliberation prompts are open-ended and allow you to explore a variety of literatures in different strands of philosophy and social sciences. Use this as an opportunity to choose readings that serve learning objective #3 for the course. Your written report needs to be grounded in scholarship. Therefore, you are expected to conduct research, identify, and draw from a select few scholarly sources. In addition to usual bibliographic databases you use, I encourage you to explore sources identified in GWU library's subject guide for philosophy available at <https://libguides.gwu.edu/philosophydatabases>. Two useful open access resources are Stanford Encyclopedia of Philosophy (available at plato.stanford.edu) and Internet Encyclopedia of Philosophy (available at iep.utm.edu). Please consult and pay heed to Peter Horban's advice in writing your written report, available at <http://www.sfu.ca/philosophy/resources/writing.html>

- If you are not a discussion leader or deliberation participant for a given session, please be sure to post a thoughtful comment on some aspect of the week's readings on the weekly discussion forum before class convenes for the week.

Your grade on this part of the course will be based on your attendance, participation, and performance in the following roles:

- a) Discussion leader (15%)
- b) Deliberation participant (15%)
- c) Participation in class conversations &

other assigned analyses and presentations (10%)

2) Book Review (20% of the grade)

You will read a philosophy of social science book and write a review. For the purpose of this exercise, I embrace a broad definition of philosophy of social science and will allow you to choose theoretically focused books from various social science disciplines. In choosing a book, you should be guided by your interests. Identify a few candidate books and choose the one that offers a moderate level of intellectual challenge. Keep learning objective #3 in mind as you choose a book to review. I am happy to provide suggestions or to help you choose from a list of books you are considering.

Good book reviews provide an accessible summary and a thoughtful evaluation. Your review should summarize core arguments of the book and also discuss its relevance for public policy and administration research. The review should be no longer than 10 pages. Writing good book reviews is a craft – you will find Edwin Battistella’s advice on writing a book review helpful; it is available at <https://blog.oup.com/2015/08/how-write-book-review/>

3) Course Project (40% of the grade)

You will do a course project on which you will write a report and make an oral presentation in class. Your overarching goal for this project is to learn philosophy of social science relevant to public policy and administration research broadly defined. I want this project to engage and excite you and therefore I will work with you so that you have a significant role in framing and choosing a project.

You should take advantage of consultations offered to do the best work you can! A typical course project is a literature review. To get the most out of consultations, prepare according to the document titled, “Course Project/Final Paper Consultation Guidelines”.

I am open to considering and approving alternate student-initiated projects that are tailored to your specific learning goals and aspirations.

To sum up, you are expected to:

- 1) When serving as a discussion leader, prepare and share an outline for the assigned reading (Due the day you make a presentation; post to Blackboard discussion board for the respective week)
- 2) When serving as a deliberation participant, prepare a written paper (Due the day of the deliberation; post to Blackboard discussion board for the respective week)
- 3) If you are not serving as a discussion leader or deliberation participant, please be sure to post a comment on Blackboard discussion forum for the week on some aspect of the week’s reading
- 4) Work on a course project all through the semester, submit a written report, and make a class presentation on it
- 5) Choose a book to review by the second week of the semester and review course calendar for due dates for book review and course project/final paper deliverables.

Course Schedule (SUBJECT TO CHANGE)

Notes:

1. Please review and follow guidelines provided in the syllabus addendum titled, "PhD Seminar Presentation and Participation Guidelines".
2. Deliberation prompt guidelines on pp. 3 of the syllabus (you are welcome to review your choice of readings with me).

Session 1 – August 29, 2022

Introduction and Overview

➔ Select a book to review and email to skpandey@gwu.edu by Wednesday, September 7, 2022

Labor Day Holiday on September 5**

Session 2 -- September 12, 2022 – Normal Science; Role of Philosophy

Kuhn, Chapter 1 to 6

Rosenberg, Chapter 1

Deliberation Prompt: Philosophical insights and analyses have clear benefits for public policy and administration scholarship.

On Logical Empiricism, see:

Creath, Richard, "Logical Empiricism", The Stanford Encyclopedia of Philosophy (Spring 2014 Edition), Edward N. Zalta (ed.), URL = <http://plato.stanford.edu/archives/spr2014/entries/logical-empiricism/>.

You may also be interested in the SEP entry on Vienna Circle.

Session 3 -- September 19, 2022 – Revolutions; Naturalism versus Interpretation

Kuhn, Chapter 7 to 13

Rosenberg, Chapter 2

Deliberation prompt: To be truly effective, public policy and administration scholarship needs to embrace critical theories that aspire to serve practical goals of human emancipation.

On Relativism, see:

Swyer, Chris, "Relativism", The Stanford Encyclopedia of Philosophy (Winter 2014 Edition), Edward N. Zalta (ed.), URL = <http://plato.stanford.edu/archives/win2014/entries/relativism/>.

Session 4 – September 26, 2022 – Human Action, Intentionality, and the Mind-Body Problem

Rosenberg, Chapter 3, 4

Deliberation prompt: The quest for uncovering/discovering universal laws of public policy and administration is unwise. (Note the term universal laws is used in the sense we think of laws governing physical phenomena, e.g., Newton’s universal law of gravitation, Coulomb’s inverse square law, Planck’s radiation law etc.)

Session 5 – October 3, 2022 -- Behaviorism and Rational Choice

Rosenberg, Chapter 5, 6

Deliberation prompt: Confusing causal description with causal explanation has serious implications for developing usable knowledge in public policy and public administration.

Session 6 – October 10, 2022 – Course Project Consultations (1-on-1 meetings)

➔ Book review due

Session 7 – October 17, 2022 – Interpretive theories and perspectives

Rosenberg, Chapter 7, 8

Deliberation Prompt: The potential of Weber’s idea of verstehen, empathic capacity to understand other humans, remains unrealized because of polarized debates in social science that call for choosing between explanation and understanding.

Fall Break on October 24**

Session 8 – October 31, 2022 -- Holism, Social Facts, and Functionalism

Rosenberg, Chapter 9, 10

Deliberation Prompt: Applying theories of racial position and/or racial hierarchy to understand social problems are not more useful than empirically driven economic analyses of racial disparities.

Session 9 – November 7, 2022 – Nature or Nurture – Social Sciences and Sociobiology

Rosenberg, Chapter 11, 12

Deliberation Prompt: Public policy and administration scholarship continues to be a bulwark for patriarchal power.

Session 10 – November 14, 2022 -- Facts and Values; Ethics in Social Inquiry
Rosenberg, Chapter 13, 14

Deliberation Prompt: The lack of self-awareness about theory-ladenness of observation and measurement stymies deep understanding of core issues in public policy and administration.

Session 11 -- November 21, 2022 -- Course Project Consultations (1-on-1 meetings)

Thanksgiving Break, November 24-27**

Session 12 -- November 28, 2022 – Social Science and Philosophy -- Recap
Rosenberg, Chapter 15

Session 13 – December 5, 2022 – Course Project Presentations

Session 14 -- December 12, 2022 – continued

Session 15-- December 19, 2022 – Course Project Paper
→ Course Project paper due

Course Policies: Grades

Late Work Policy: Assignments turned in late will be assessed a penalty: a half-letter grade for anything from 1 – 12 hours late, a full-letter grade for 12-24 hours. Students will not receive credit for any assignments turned in after 24 hours.

Professor Pandey's Policy on grading concerns: The professor will not consider any verbal or oral statement of concerns about grading. The student must write a detailed memo to the professor explaining how his/her work met the requirements outlined in the respective evaluation rubric for the professor to consider the grade.

Expectations of Written Work: For all written material you submit or share in this course, be sure to use quotation marks to denote exact quotations and provide the page number(s). Failure to attribute sources correctly may constitute plagiarism and result in a grade of F for the course.

Course Policies: Technology and Media

Blackboard: Blackboard may be used as an aid to the course for providing course readings and for sharing course materials and carrying out course-related exchanges.

Computer and cellphone usage: If you use a computer during class to take notes, please only take notes. The class is a cellphone-free zone. In the case of an emergency, please step out of the classroom discreetly and without distracting others. Any use of technology to distract one's self or others in the class may lead to suspension of the privilege to use technology during class.

Course Policies: Student Expectations

Course Policy on Classroom Recording and Accommodation for Legitimate Absence:

This is an in-person course in which students are expected to attend class sessions in person on a consistent basis. Synchronous remote participation will not be available for class sessions for this course with one exception. This exception pertains to the faculty member testing positive for COVID-19 and being required to isolate; the course may meet virtually during this isolation period if the faculty member is feeling well enough to teach.

There will be no recording of classroom sessions for this course. Students who miss a class session for a legitimate reason should contact the faculty member for information on how to make up for the missed session; this information on how to make up for missed session will be provided to the student through Blackboard and/or a Zoom meeting.

Respect for Diversity: It is my intent that students from all backgrounds and perspectives be well-served by this course, that students' learning needs be addressed both in and out of class, and that the diversity that students bring to this class be viewed as a resource, strength, and benefit. I strive to create an inclusive classroom and present materials and activities that are respectful of diversity including gender, sexuality, disability, age, socioeconomic status, ethnicity, race, culture, and political affiliation. Your suggestions are encouraged and appreciated.

Civility Policy: Higher education works best when it becomes a vigorous and lively marketplace of ideas in which all points of view are heard. Free expression in the classroom is an integral part of this process. At the same time, higher education works best when all of us approach the enterprise with empathy and respect for others, irrespective of their ideology, political views, or identity. We value civility because that is the kind of community we want, and we care for it because civility permits intellectual exploration and growth.

Attendance and Participation Policy: Attendance and participation is crucial to learning and you are expected to attend all classes except in case of extreme hardship such as an unforeseen medical emergency.

Professionalism Policy: Per university policy and classroom etiquette; mobile phones, iPods, etc. must be silenced during all classroom lectures. Those not heeding this rule will be asked to step outside the classroom so that the learning environment is not disrupted.

Please arrive on time for all class meetings. Students who habitually disturb the class by talking, arriving late, etc., and have been warned, will result in a letter grade reduction to their final grade.

Policies in The Trachtenberg School Courses:

1. Incompletes: A student must consult with the instructor to obtain a grade of I (incomplete) no later than the last day of classes in a semester. At that time, the student and instructor will both sign the CCAS contract for incompletes and submit a copy to the School Director. Please consult the TSPPA Student Handbook or visit <http://bulletin.gwu.edu/university-regulations/#GIncomplete> for the policy on incompletes.

2. Submission of Written Work Products Outside of the Classroom: It is the responsibility of the student to ensure that an instructor receives each written assignment. Students can submit written work electronically only with the express permission of the instructor.

3. Submission of Written Work Products after Due Date: Policy on Late Work: All work must be turned in by the assigned due date in order to receive full credit for that assignment, unless an exception is expressly made by the instructor.

4. Academic Honesty: Please consult the “policies” section of the GW student handbook for the university code of academic integrity. Note especially the definition of plagiarism: “intentionally representing the words, ideas, or sequence of ideas of another as one’s own in any academic exercise; failure to attribute any of the following: quotations, paraphrases, or borrowed information.” All examinations, papers, and other graded work products and assignments are to be completed in conformance with the George Washington University Code of Academic Integrity. See the GW Academic Integrity Code at studentconduct.gwu.edu/code-academic-integrity

5. Changing Grades After Completion of Course: No changes can be made in grades after the conclusion of the semester, other than in cases of clerical error.

6. The Syllabus: This syllabus is a guide to the course for the student. Sound educational practice requires flexibility and the instructor may therefore, at her/his discretion, change content and requirements during the semester. Excused absences will be given for absences due to religious holidays as per the university schedule, but please advise the instructor ahead of time.

University Policies and Information

University policy on observance of religious holidays

Students must notify faculty during the first week of the semester in which they are enrolled in the course, or as early as possible, but no later than three weeks prior to the absence, of their intention to be absent from class on their day(s) of religious observance. If the holiday falls within the first three weeks of class, the student must inform faculty in the first week of the semester. For details and policy, see “Religious Holidays” at provost.gwu.edu/policies-procedures-and-guidelines.

Academic Integrity Code

Academic integrity is an essential part of the educational process, and all members of the GW community take these matters very seriously. As the instructor of record for this course, my role is to provide clear expectations and uphold them in all assessments. Violations of academic integrity occur when students fail to cite research sources properly, engage in unauthorized collaboration, falsify data, and otherwise violate the Code of Academic Integrity. If you have any questions about whether or not particular academic practices or resources are permitted, you should ask me for clarification. If you are reported for an academic integrity violation, you should contact the Office of Student Rights and Responsibilities (SRR) to learn more about your rights and options in the process. Consequences can range from failure of assignment to expulsion from the university and may include a transcript notation. For more information, please refer to the SRR website (<https://studentconduct.gwu.edu/academic-integrity>), email rights@gwu.edu, or call 202-994-6757.

Use of Electronic Course Materials and Class Recordings

Students are encouraged to use electronic course materials, including recorded class sessions, for private personal use in connection with their academic program of study. Electronic course materials and recorded class sessions should not be shared or used for non-course related purposes unless express permission has been granted by the instructor. Students who impermissibly share any electronic course materials are subject to discipline under the Student Code of Conduct. Please contact the instructor if you have questions regarding what constitutes permissible or impermissible use of electronic course materials and/or recorded class sessions. Please contact Disability Support Services at disabilitysupport.gwu.edu if you have questions or need assistance in accessing electronic course materials.

Academic support

Writing Center

GW's Writing Center cultivates confident writers in the University community by facilitating collaborative, critical, and inclusive conversations at all stages of the writing process. Working alongside peer mentors, writers develop strategies to write independently in academic and public settings. Appointments can be booked online at gwu.mywconline.

Academic Commons

Academic Commons provides tutoring and other academic support resources to students in many courses. Students can schedule virtual one-on-one appointments or attend virtual drop-in sessions. Students may schedule an appointment, review the tutoring schedule, access other academic support resources, or obtain assistance at academiccommons.gwu.edu.

Support for students outside the classroom

Disability Support Services (DSS) 202-994-8250

Any student who may need an accommodation based on the potential impact of a disability should contact Disability Support Services in Rome Hall, 801 22nd Street, NW, Suite 102, to establish eligibility and to coordinate reasonable accommodations. For additional information see: disabilitysupport.gwu.edu

Counseling and Psychological Services 202-994-5300

GW's Colonial Health Center offers counseling and psychological services, supporting mental health and personal development by collaborating directly with students to overcome challenges and difficulties that may interfere with academic, emotional, and personal success. For additional information see healthcenter.gwu.edu/counseling-and-psychological-services

Title IX Sexual Harassment and Related Conduct Policy

- Under the university policy, faculty are considered “designated reporters” and are required to “promptly report any information they learn about suspected or alleged Sexual Harassment or potential violations of this Policy to the university’s Title IX Coordinator.”
- Confidential resources are available through the Colonial Health Center (CHC) at 202-994-5300 and the Office of Advocacy and Support (OAS) at 202-994-0443.
- To make a report to the Title IX Coordinator, please call 202-994-7434 or visit <https://titleix.gwu.edu/>

Student Support Information

You can obtain a variety of useful information at <https://online.gwu.edu/student-support> (e.g., technical requirements and support, student services, obtaining a GWorld card, and state contact information).

Average Minimum Hours of Workload

Students will spend ~2 hours per week on direct instruction and ~5.5 hours per week on independent activities, on average. Over the course of the semester, students will spend 7.5 hours in instructional time per week for a total of 112.5 hours for the semester.

Safety and security

- In an emergency: call GWPD 202-994-6111 or 911
- For situation-specific actions: review the Emergency Response Handbook available at: safety.gwu.edu/emergency-response-handbook
- In an active violence situation: Get Out, Hide Out or Take Out: go.gwu.edu/shooterprep
